The Mananaler Shore. East-land, Dixie-land and Wonderland

MARIANA IMAST, from Mt. Lebanon, Syria, and Mazira Youssef, from Beyrout, serve you coffee in the Oriental Bazaar; the thick, strong, delicious coffee of the Turke. Oriental Bazaar; the thick, strong, delicious coffee of the Turks. Shinrijo Take, a shoemaker of Tokio, Japan, shows you how to make slippers after the Eastern fashion. Julie Hobeila has come from Damascus to show how that wonderful embroidery is done. Moy Pink Fun and his wife, from Shanghai, China, will tell you all about teak furniture, -if you can understand Cantonese Chinese. And four musicians from a Syrian village, headed by Ousta Moukana, sing creepy songs of bul-buls, lasting affection, battle, murder and sudden death, They accompany themselves on the kanoun, the oud, the daff and the durbaka.

All this is in the basement,-the Arabian Nights corner, Fourth Avenue and Ninth Street. In the Rotunda, the Alabama cotton field scene, and, over it, the Crystal Shower, copied from no land save Wonderland.

These are but incidental amusements for visitors to the White Sale that is running up the greatest January figures that a store has ever known.

Did it ever Time Cost in strike you Useless Reading that many consume your time must have been in gold settings. If you bought one turned out in accordance with the rule that Rousseau gave for writing love letters? He said:

"To write a good love letter you ought to be-gin without knowing what you mean to say, and to finish it without knowing what you have Reading such writings robs you of your time. Your time is your capital-your money. There are so many demands made upon it that we should be frugal of that little we call our own. It is as easy, and vastly more entertaining, to read the enduring and lasting contributions from the great writers of all times, if you only know what they are and have them at hand.

If Iyou are interested in romance and sentiment read these great amatory contributions which have become immortal: "The Love Letwhich have become immortal: "The Love Letters of a Worldly Woman," Sir Walter Raleigh's famous little poem, "Now, What Is Love?" "The Love of Achilles," by Biou, "Dido's Love for Eneas," "The Old German Love Songs," by Muller, "Love's Vitality," by Drayton, "Courtin'," by James Russell Lowell, "The Lovers of Kandahar," "My Dear and Only Love "Dear Love Courting"." clops in Love, " "Love by the Ocean," by Valdes, "Love Among the Ruins," by Browning, "Love and Honor" and "Love and Virtue," by Patmore—these are only a few of the masterpieces in matters sentimental which are given in full in the International Library. They will all interest you.

In the Library there is reading for your every mood;—the great contributions of the poets, es-sayists, novelists, historians, dramatists, humorists, scientists and playwrights,-and each is complete in itself.

The Library is in twenty large volumes. If you call at the store or mail a postal card you can learn how to secure it at just one-half the publishers' price while our edition lasts, by paying only one dollar and the balance in payments after you receive the Library. And to do this you should act promptly, for we have only one edition and that may soon be The Book Store, Ninth Street.

Toyland, the be-Contracting loved of children Toyland before Christmas, is to become only a pleasant memory. The Oriental Bazaar and other feasive trousers-the low- tures press it for room, so its acre Trousers priced kinds made still and a half of fun and beauty becomes the year-round Toy Store.

This means that many of the toys must go. We have selected those that must vanish, and fixed the prices to insure results. Too many to catalogue, but about all kinds, and cheap beyond your knowing.

Don't get the idea that this means the discontinuance of the Toy Store. Toyland is a Christmas feature, and as such is now contracting to its ordinary dimensions. But the Toy Store goes on forever, ever fresh and
